The Ladies' Benevolent Union Association held a meeting last night at the Presbyterian Church, on 41/4 street, for the purpose of receiving the fifteenth anagal report of this excellent society—the Rev. Mr. Hill in the Chair. The proceedings commenced with religious exercises, the Rev. Mr. Sunderland reading a partion of the deriptures, namely, part of the 25th hapter of St. Matthew, commencing with the 34th verse. Prayer was then offered up by the Rev. Mr Hill, after which a hymn was sung. Dr. Watkins then read the annual report, from which we give the following epitome: Several hundred families during the past year have been relieved of their more pressing wants, which was all that the society with their limited means. could do-food had been given to the famishing, and fuel to those that were perishing with the cold. This had been bestowed by the managers in person, after a careful examination of the applicants. It was the foreign emigrant population upon whom the Society's means had been chiefly expended, American women are generally too sensitive, or too proud, to seek that relief for which they could furnish no equivalent. puring the past two years, the Institution had been located in 7th street, adjoining Odd Fellows' Hall, where the articles that have been made, are kept for sale, and where orders are received for embroidery. braiding, &c. This department is under the superin tendance of Mrs. Griffin; more than one hundred females having received constant, and others occasional employment. During the past year 10,000 garments have been made. A branch establishment has been instituted on Capitol Hill, where not less than one bundred poor fimales have received assistance, who have made up during the year some 1,000 or 1,500 garments. A building had been rented near the Capitol grounds for providing shelter for the poor. All this had been done without receiving any aid from the mother society. The branch establishment is under the direction of Mrs. Mills. During the past year not quite $2,000 had been received, and nearly all had been expended by the society. For the amount collected they were mainly indebted to the liberality of a few citizens, there not being more than two hundred annual subscribers to the funds of the institute. Dr. Watkins then read the Treasurer's Report for the past year, commencing on 1-t of November, 1852. Balance on hand, $17 43; amount since received, $1,859 77; total, $1,877 20; amount expended. 1,801 86; balance on hand, $75 34.

The Rev. Mr. Sunderland then delivered a most impressive address, addressing the ladies of the society who were assembled, upon the moral sublingity of their work, which he characterised as practical Christianity, what Christ himself would have done if he was upon the earth. In their work, there was a practical argument in favor of religion; it was not Greek nor Hebrew, nor was it some occult science that the ignorant could not understand. There was not a poor, ragged child, nor a lone woman in this great metropolis, where fashion sports her equipage among the squalor that surrounds it, who cannot fathom the arguments that they thus advanced. They were building up an argument for the Christian reli gion, stronger than any to be found in all the learned hbraries of the world. The speaker then related an anecdote of a celebra ted sceptical lawyer in London, who had been con verted from his infidelity by the exertions of a poor aged woman. In like manner their exertions were the greatest argument upon earth in support of relig ion, and if they could be spread, there would soon be no more infidelity or scepticism among mankind. And why? because their object was love, it was not metaphysics, it was not astronomy, but it was the zeal of Christ's religion which burns and burns into the human heart in spite of everything. It was more romantic than fiction, more tender than sentimentalism. This association was one of the beams of light shining into the dark nooks of the earth, making glad the hearts that are bowed down with sorrow, and it must triumph, because it was industry, charity, and prayer. If there is a God in heaven, these things He had been often staggered at beholding the inequalities of condition among mankind, and it was only by looking above, that he could account for them. Why should one person enjoy ease and affluence and another be obliged to beg even the privilege to labor? Why should the heaviest of the burden be placed upon woman? By looking to the cross he saw that by their sufferings the poor were fitted for heaven. This was their work, they were converting souls to heaven, not by sermons, not by long essays; but by giving a cup of cold water, by clothing the naked, and reclaiming the wayward. The speaker continued in a similar strain and was listened to with much pleasure, by his auditory, and at the termination of the proceedings, a collection was taken up towards the expenses of the society.

Benefit of Mr. Landis - A Great Night .- Mr. Laudis, the king of "old niggers," is announced for a Senefit this evening, and presents a bill of more than ordinary attraction, in which the whole Terpsicho rean Troupe bring out their best pieces. Mr. W. H. Morgan, the tamborinist of Kunkel's Troupe, has volunteered for the occasion, and is a card himself; the African Giant, ten feet high, will appear in his own way; and a new song, in burlesque of the visits of Harriet Beecher Stowe and the Black Swan to Lady Sutherland, will be sung by Mr. Conrad, assisted by the troupe. Last evening, the house was kept in a roar by their mirth-provoking performances, or soothed into silence by their pathetic songs .-Clusky and Johnson are capital dancers, and indeed the whole performances are conducted with spirit and effect, as all will acknowledge who try themso go, and be sure and go to-night.

Gradd Balls on Monday Night .- It will be remembered that next Monday evening has been fixed upon for the grand ball of the National Greys, at Jackson Hall. The committees have been, and continue to be assiduous in giving full celat to the fete, and we hear that Prosperi's fine band will introduce something new and exhibitating to the dancing world, and will also play a new quickstep, composed expressly for the Greys, and the occasion. Several gentlemen o' distinction, military and civic, will honor the balwith their presence, and such an array of beauty is expected as probably never before assembled in Jack-

The Mount Vernon Guards also have their splendid ball on Monday night, at Sarepta Hall, Alexandria, and no doubt will have a rich affair, as the company are ou fait in getting up their festivals. An excellent band is engaged, and everything provided to give pleasure and satisfaction to the beautiful ladies of Alexandria, and as a matter of course to the gentlemen. The military display will be grand, as it is thought a more general attendance will be given to this ball than is usual in that city. A happy night to Splendid Coaches for Willard's Hotel .- We were shown yesterday morning, two of the finest Hotel coaches yet produced. They are intended as the coaches of Willard's Hotel, and are certainly in keeping with that fine improvement. The vehieles are painted yellow, highly polished, the lining and outside curtain black, making a neat contrast, and the pannels are ornamented with beautifully painted vignettes, representing scenes in Italy, &c., of the most elegant character. The lamps are of the highest finish, and the words, "Willard's Hotel," are put on in silver raised letters. The in side is luxu iously cushioned, with red plush, cur tams and trimmings to suit, and everything of like character is presented. The horses for these Willard coaches are matched bay and black spans, excellent animals, and the harness and trappings will be in keeping with the coaches. Next week, Pennsylvania avenue will be the scene of their first display to the public.

The Eolian .- Our talented neighbor, Prof. Schell, devoted near the whole of Monday last, to explaining to his friends and others interested in musical improvements, the advantages of the Eolian Attachment to the piano forte. The beautiful instrument at the store of Hilbus & Hitz, was fully tested, and every one present acquainted with music, and who was disposed to listen without prejudice, left the store satisfied that the improvement is one of great value to the professor and amateur. Prof. Scheil attentively heard the ob jections urged, and answered them fully, proving the truth of his theory by his practice.

The Mexican Volunteers held a meeting on Thurs day evening last, when the following gentlemen, belonging to the Maryland and District of Columbia regiment, were appointed as a committee: Captain Stewart, Lieut. P. B. Bell, Joseph P. Snillen, Hora tio Fitch, and Joseph C. Reilley. The object pro posed is to form a complete organization of the rem nents of the above distinguished regiment.

Care Dismissed .- Isaac Ross, a Guard, appeared be fore Justice Goddard to answer the charge of an as sault on Peter Huchings. It appeared that Mr. Ross, the time of night. Pulling out his gold watch to anin the discharge of his duty, had arrested Mr. H. a few swer the inquiry, the fellow immediately snatched nights since. After Mr. H. had been released in the it and ran off. He was, however, arrested and sent morning, as soon as he got outside the guard house, be to jail, and the watch restored to its owner. Robdeclared with an oath, that he could whip the man beries are quite frequent in all directions. Mr. Ross seized him, and was about to take him before the Captain again, when the from the sign on the new Olympic Theatre, at the bystanders begged him off. Justice Goddard dismissed | corner of Baltimore and Charles streets. The reathe case, as there was no evidence of an assault.

Circuit Court .- Richard Roe on the demise of John Holroyd, vs. Levi Pumphrey. This case was continued from yesterday-it was, however, delayed for more time, by the absence of one of the jury. In the meanwhile, Mr. Ratcliffe applied to the Court, to review a decision that they had inade some time back at the commencement of the session. The case was an appeal by a party named Dowling, against a judgment of the Corporation of Georgetown, in which the above was fined $30 for selling liquor, the Court de-ciding that there was no appeal. Mr. Ratcliffe showed that the Court had the power, and there will accordingly be a fresh trial of the case next week.

In the absence of the juror, Mr. Ramsburg, Mr. McKim addressed the court on a point of law which had been raised by the defendant's counsel, during which the absent jurof returned, just in time.
It was decided by the court in his favor. The defendant's counsel offered as another objection, that the property had been assessed in Thomas' name after his death, and produced the decision of other courts to support it. Judge Dunlop said that in the Georgetown charter, the Corporation were not compelled to publish the name of the lawful owner.

Mr. Carlisle contended that this did not apply to the harter of Washington, there being a provision in 14th section of the cearter of 1820, by which the Register was furnished with the names of parties to whom the transfer of property was made.

Mr. McKim maintained that the Corporation were not obliged to know that the property had changed hands until they had received information of it from the legal officers. The words of the charter say, that a makes no difference in whose name the property is sold, provided it be in the name of the party to whom it is assessed. Mr. Bradley raised, as another objection, that if the lots were improved property, on which yearly tenants resided, with sufficient personal property, as in the present case, to pay the taxes, there could not, according to the city charter, be any sale of the property for them, the taxes must be levied on the personal Mr. McKim cited, against the provision of the charter, the case of Drummond, in which it was decided otherwise by the Court. On a review, it appears, however, that the Court were divided on the point, and the matter was laid over for future decision. The case was still going on when we went to press. The following little incident will show our enemies the usclessness of waging war against us. One of our subscribers became dissatisfied and determined to discontinue taking the Star, and gave orders to the news agent who furnished him with the paper to that effect. "But," observed he, as he sorrowfully gave the order for discontinuance, "I have told my son to subscribe to it in my place." Gas to the Navy Yard .- We understand that the Washington Gas Light Company" will commence in a few days, laying down gas mains to the Navy Yard, an item of news which will be very welcom to the citizens of that portion of Washington. The Trumpet for the Columbia .- It will be observed that the magnificent silver trumpet, heretofore de scribed, is to be presented by Mrs. E. A. P., to the Columbia Fire Company, next Tuesday evening. It will be an interesting presentation in all its appointments, and in addition to the eloquent speeches to be made, there will also be excellent music, given by Prosperi's Brass Band, to enliven the occasion. Western Lock-up.-Lately two persons who were emporarily confined in this prison made their escape therefrom, and several attacks have been made upon the building by persons who do not like the establishment. This is a poor way to break it up. The better plan would be for all who are "down on the Lock-up" to behave themselves properly; then it will go down for want of patronage. [COMMUNICATED.] An Arithmetical Question.—It appears by an arti-cle in the Star of yesterday, that the Teachers' Association discussed last Saturday the relative merits of the treatises on Arithmetic. Assuming from the taet that they are conversant with the science, and understanding that they are in the habit of meeting hebdomidally and inviting the public to their discussions, which are, no doubt, very interesting and pro foundly learned, allow me to request, through the columns of the Star, that the learned body will determine, at their next meeting, the best mode of arriving at the answer, by Arithmetic, of the following question, and make known, through your brilliant little paper, for the enlightenment of the public, that

Quite a warm warfare has been waged for some time in our flour market, between the buils and bears. The latter, true to instinct, like a set of old fogies, holding on to the tail end of time, as if afraid to let it go, have been straining every nerve of their strong | 550 de paws to bring prices back to their old standard, and the former equally zealous, have strained both hoof and horn in trying to keep them up. The bears, however, with a little European interference, have succeeded to some extent in vanquishing their enemies. After our dispatch of yesterday, the article declined still further, and sales to considerable extent were made at $6 37% @ $6 44. This morning we do not think over $6 25 a $6 37 \( \) could be obtained. Wheat also has declined still farther. This morning it is selling at $1 35 @ $1 38 for red, and $1 38 @ $1 40
